

ABSTRACT

We describe multiple methods and apparatuses for characterizing the quality of a network path by means of metrics that at the same time are (1)
5 additive and (2) characterize the performance of network applications.